Membership Fell at Eight of 10 Unions, Largest Unions Report in 2012

Friday, April 12, 2013 from Daily Labor Report By Ben Penn

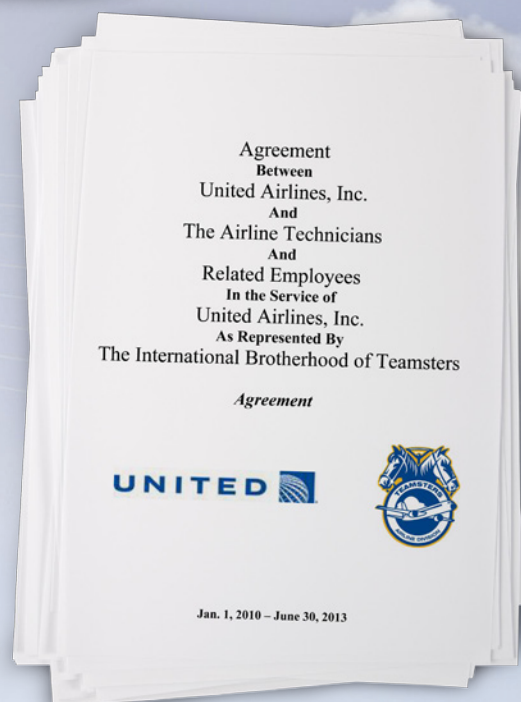

The unions with the steepest one-year membership drop-offs were the National Education Association (down 99,175 to 3.1 million), International Brotherhood of Teamsters (51,924 to 1.3 million), and Service Employees International Union (44,960 to 1.9 million), based on their LM-2 forms filed with DOL's Office of Labor-Management Standards.

IBT, whose membership fell by the largest rate in 2012—a 4.0 percent decrease from the previous year—declined to comment.

 WHY? The Teamsters signed bad union contracts that allow unlimited outsourcing to China.
