I. INTRODUCTION

1
2 Defendants, International Brotherhood of Teamsters (“IBT”), its president, James Hoffa,
3 Teamsters SFO Local 856/986 (SFO Local), and its principal officer, Peter Finn, (collectively
4 “Defendant Union”), seek dismissal of Plaintiffs’ First Amended Complaint (“FAC”), which 5 alleges claims against Defendant Union for breach of the duty of fair representation, breach of 6 fiduciary duties under Labor Management Reporting Disclosure Act (“LMRDA”), violations of 7 the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (“ERISA”), and for relief therefrom, under 8 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6). As demonstrated below, Plaintiffs have met their 9 pleading burden. Plaintiffs have plausibly alleged Defendant Union breached its duty of fair
10 representation owed to Plaintiffs, and to others, by acting in an arbitrary, discriminatory, and bad
11 faith manner. Plaintiffs’ timely filed their claims because damages were speculative until the 12 2016 CBA was ratified and because there is an express waiver of the statute of limitations in 13 LOA 05-03M. Plaintiffs have plausibly alleged Defendant Union breached fiduciary duties owed
14 under LMRDA by harming Plaintiffs’ property interests and acted for the benefit of Defendant
15 United and themselves instead of Plaintiffs. Lastly, Plaintiffs have plausibly alleged Defendant
16 Union, as a knowing participant, is liable for certain breaches of fiduciary duties owed under 17 ERISA. Accordingly, Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss should be denied in its entirety.

II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

22 United Air Lines, Inc. merged with Continental Airlines, Inc. (“CAL”) into a single legal 23 entity named United Airlines, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of a newly named parent company,
24 United Continental Holdings, Inc. (collectively “United”), in 2010. The present dispute arose
25 between Plaintiffs, and others similarly situated (“UAL Mechanics”), regarding implementation 26 of the merger of those two air carriers.
27
28

1 A. PARTIES

2 Plaintiffs are all employed by United as mechanics and are members in good standing
3 with Defendant IBT. FAC ¶ 9. At all times relevant, Defendant IBT is and has been the certified
4 collective bargaining agent for all UAL Mechanics. Id. ¶15. Defendant IBT’s organizational 5 structure includes local lodges responsible for carrying out its union business at a particular 6 location. Id. ¶¶15-20.

8 B. BANKRUPTCY AGREEMENT LOA 05-03M

9 LOA 05-03M is an agreement entered into with United and its mechanics concerning 10 concessions UAL Mechanics made to benefit United during United’s bankruptcy reorganization, 11 reduced to a writing, and incorporated into the then existing CBA as LOA 05-03M. Id. ¶¶29-32.
12 LOA 05-03M states, “the Company shall not maintain or establish any single-employer defined
13 benefit plan for any UAL or Company employee group unless AMFA-represented employees 14 are provided the option of electing to receive a comparable defined benefit plan in lieu of the 15 Replacement Plan Contribution.” FAC ¶27, 33. LOA 05-03M also provided for UAL Mechanics
16 to participate in a profit-sharing program to compensate for the 25% wage reduction suffered 17 during the bankruptcy. Id. ¶¶ 37-39. And, LOA 05-03M, in Paragraph 13, further grants any of 18 the parties to the agreement a right to bring actions relating to the performance under the 19 agreement at any time. Id. ¶¶ 40-41.

22 C. COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENTS (“CBA”)

23 In 2009, prior to the merger, Defendant IBT entered into a CBA with CAL mechanics to 24 be amendable after 2012 (“2009 CAL CBA”); in 2010, a few months after the merger was 25 announced, Defendant IBT entered into a CBA with UAL mechanics, to become amendable after 26 2013 (“2010 UAL CBA”). FAC ¶51, 52. The stand-alone 2009 CAL CBA did not give profit
27
28

1 sharing rights; however, it did have defined single-employer pension plan benefits. Id. ¶ 51. The 2 2010 UAL CBA contained LOA 05-03M fully incorporated. FAC ¶ 52. The governing CBA by 3 which to measure the actions taken regarding Plaintiffs' claims is the 2010 UAL CBA because 4 it was the operative CBA for UAL Mechanics at the time Plaintiffs filed their grievances. A joint
5 CBA combining the two mechanics groups was not agreed upon and ratified until December
6 2016 ("2016 JCBA"). Id. ¶¶ 55-67. Defendant IBT promised UAL Mechanics routinely the terms
7 of LOA 05-03M would be addressed in the joint CBA. When the final tentative agreement was 8 released, on or about September 29, 2016, and the specialized stand-alone vote of the UAL
9 Mechanics had not occurred nor was there any language contained in the tentative relating to the 10 vote, Plaintiffs filed grievances prior to ratification of the 2016 JCBA regarding LOA 05-03M.
11
13 Pls. Decl. Scholz, Dill, and Bybee; FAC ¶¶ 87-182.

14 D. GRIEVANCES

15 The failure of the 2016 JCBA tentative agreement to address the promised enforcement
16 of LOA 05-03M prompted UAL Mechanics across the system to grieve this failure. Around this 17 same time, an arbitration board found United in violation of the pilot's bankruptcy agreement
18 because United included CAL pilots in the UAL profit-sharing pool prior to amalgamating the 19 CBA's of the two pilot groups. Pl. Decl. Scholz, Ex. L. Plaintiffs presented this decision to 20 Defendant Union, along with their grievances, as support for Plaintiffs' positions to Defendant 21 Union. FAC ¶¶ 82-182. Defendant IBT and its officers and agents met Plaintiffs' evidence and 22 grievances with fierce resistance, even presenting some grievances from being filed. Id. ¶¶ 82-
23 182. The operative CBA for processing Plaintiffs' grievances outlines distinct processes and 24 procedures to be filed. Id.; Pl. Decl. Bybee, Ex. G. None of these processes were followed and 25 the only documentation Defendant Union produced to meet these requirements is a 22-page
26
27
28

1 memo written by Edward Gleason (“Gleason memo”), a person who is not a member of the 2 union, not an employee of United, but was one of three people responsible for handling LOA 05-
3 03M in the negotiations for the 2016 JCBA on behalf of Defendant Union. FAC ¶¶ 82-182; Defs.
4 Decl. Manicone, Ex. B, Gleason mem. The “veteran and well-respected labor lawyer” is not a
5 neutral party nor was he unbiased. Defendant Union, in essence, asked the fox who guarded the 6 hen house to write a report on how well he guarded the hen house despite the fact there is not a 7 single hen left in the hen house.
8

9 The Gleason memo appears to address a portion of Plaintiff Scholz’ grievance and of 10 Plaintiff Beier’s, merging language to form a singular “quotation,” stating a sole SFO-based 11 mechanic grieved this issue. Defs. Decl. Manicone, Ex. B. The Gleason memo states no pension
12 accrual service for UAL Mechanics because United did not violate LOA 05-03M – that is it, just 13 a conclusory statement with no supporting facts, law, or evidence. Id. 15-16. The memo next 14 states, unequivocally, CARP was not a single employer defined pension plan and then concedes
15 it is; however, even though United told Defendant Union there was a duty under the LOA 05-
16 03M, Defendant Union thought it was too expensive for United so Defendant Union arbitrarily
17 and unilaterally decided to not enforce the duty. Id. The memo goes further to deny express 18 terms of LOA 05-03M and the CBA stating LOA 05-03M only applies to pre-merger United 19 because LOA 05-03M does not contain a successors and assigns clause. Id. at 17. The pilot’s 20 arbitration case, the CBA, and basic contract interpretation prove this statement false. And,
21 Plaintiffs offered, many times, to provide the contemporaneous notes taken at the time of LOA
22 05-03M negotiations to prove mergers were expressly considered; Defendant Union rejected and 23 rebuffed all of these offers. The memo, again inexplicably, goes on to say, if they did take some 24 action on CARP, they would need the consent of the work groups; at least one, yes, the UAL
25
26
27
28

1 Mechanics. Id. 17-18. The memo also erroneously states the vote to ratify the 2016 JCBA
2 satisfies the vote requirement in LOA 05-03M. Id. The vote on the joint agreement included
3 CAL mechanics – it could never satisfy the express language of the CBA. Lastly, the memo
4 concludes the grievance is untimely because presumably Plaintiffs’ should have known to 5 enforce the agreement in the amendable period even though Defendant Union said they were. Id.
6
7 19. The memo is the only “process” Plaintiffs have ever received with respect to their grievances.

8 III. LEGAL STANDARD

9 Rule 8(a) requires a plaintiff to plead each claim with enough specificity to “give the 10 defendant fair notice of what the . . . claim is and the grounds upon which it rests” and “must 11 contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to ‘state a claim to relief that is plausible on 12 its face.’ ” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007); Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a). In 13 deciding sufficiency, the court must accept as true all of the factual allegations contained in the 14 complaint. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009). Where “two alternative” conclusions 15 can be drawn from factual allegations, “one advanced by defendant and the other advanced by 16 plaintiff, both of which are plausible, plaintiff’s complaint survives a motion to dismiss under 17 Rule 12(b)(6).” Starr v. Baca, 652 F.3d 1202 (9th Cir. 2011); Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6). A court
18 should deny a motion to dismiss based on a statute of limitations unless it can be “determine[d]
19 with certainty” the statute has run. Supermail Cargo, Inc., v. United States, 68 F.3d 1204, 1207
20 (9th Cir. 1995). “[A] complaint cannot be dismissed unless it appears beyond doubt the plaintiff
21 can prove no set of facts that would establish the timeliness of the claim.” Id., at 1207.
22
24

25 IV. ARGUMENT

26 A. PLAINTIFFS STATE A CLAIM FOR BREACH OF THE DUTY OF FAIR 27 REPRESENTATION.

28 The general duty of fair representation arises from the Railway Labor Act (“RLA”). 45

1 U.S.C. §§ 151 et seq.; Vaca v. Sipes, 386 U.S. 171, 190 (1967). A union breaches this duty when 2 its conduct toward a member is “arbitrary, discriminatory, or in bad faith.” Jones v. Union Pac.
3 R.R., 968 F.2d 937, 941 (9th Cir.1992) (quoting Vaca v. Sipes, 386 U.S. 171, 190 (1967)). A 4 union’s actions are arbitrary “only if, in light of the factual and legal landscape at the time of the 5 union’s actions . . . [are] so far outside a ‘wide range of reasonableness’ as to be ‘irrational.’ ”
6 Air Line Pilots Ass’n v. O’Neill, 499 U.S. 65, 67 (1991); Conkle v. Jeong, 73 F.3d 909, 915–16
7 (9th Cir. 1995) (holding union’s decision is arbitrary if it lacks rational basis); Johnson v. U.S.
8 Postal Serv., 756 F.2d 1461, 1465 (9th Cir. 1985) (reckless disregard may constitute arbitrary
9 conduct); Tenorio v. NLRB, 680 F.2d 598, 601 (9th Cir. 1982) (defining arbitrary as “egregious 10 disregard for the right of union members”).

13 Each of wrong is mutually independent. “Just as . . . fiduciaries owe their beneficiaries a 14 duty of care as well as duty of loyalty, a union owes employees a duty to represent them
15 adequately as well as honestly and in good faith.” Air Line Pilots Ass’n Int’l v. O’Neill, 499 U.S.
16 65, 75 (1991); Simo v. Union Of Needletrades, Indus., 322 F.3d 602, 617 (9th Cir. 2003).
17 “Whereas the arbitrariness analysis looks to the objective adequacy of the Union’s conduct, the 18 discrimination and bad faith analyses look to the subjective motivation of the Union officials.”
19 Simo, at 618. While the union has substantial discretion in representing members, “a union can 20 still breach the duty of fair representation if it exercised its judgment in bad faith or in a 21 discriminatory manner.” Beck v. United Food & Commercial Wkrs., Local 99, 506 F.3d 874, 22 880 (9th Cir. 2007).

25 1. Plaintiffs Plausibly Allege Defendant Unions Breached the Duty of Fair
26 Representation Because Defendant Unions Actions Were Arbitrary,
27 Discriminatory, and in Bad Faith and Caused Plaintiffs’ Damages.

28 Individual employees are to have a substantial role in the grievance process. Elgin, J. &

1 E. Rwy. Co. v. Burley, 325 U.S. 711, 734-736 (1945). If the union acts with “egregious disregard
2 for the rights of union members,” the union has violated the duty to fairly represent. Peters v
3 Burlington, 931 F.2d 534, 538 (9th Cir. 1991) quoting Tenorio v. NLRB, 680 F.2d 598, 601 (9th
4 Cir. 1982). And, courts have found air carrier employees covered by the RLA have a statutory
5 right to process their grievances individually under the RLA. Pyles v. United Airlines, Inc., 79
6 F.3d 1046, 1052 (11th Cir. 1996) (citing Stevens v. Teamsters Local 2707 et al, 504 F. Supp.
7 332, 334 (W.D. Wash. 1980) (individual airline employee entitled to convene special boards of 8 adjustment as a matter of statutory right without union assistance)). If a grievance is “important
9 and meritorious,” a union must provide a “more substantial reason for abandoning it.” Gregg v.
10 Chauffeurs, Teamsters and Helpers Union Local 150, 699 F.2d 1015, 1016 (1983) (the merits of 11 the grievance are relevant to the sufficiency of the unions representations). It is well established 12 a collective bargaining representative has no authority to bargain away vested rights without an 13 employee's consent. See e.g., Allied Chemical & Alkali Workers of America v. Pittsburgh Plate 14 Glass Co., 404 U.S. 157, 181 n. 20 (1971). “Where the Union actions are governed by its 15 interpretation of contractual provisions, bad faith may exist if the Union maintains an illegitimate 16 contract interpretation and prevents employees from using established grievance procedures to 17 challenge the interpretation.” Stupy v. U.S. Postal Service, 951 F.2d 1079, 1083 (9th Cir.).
18 Reliance on an attorney’s advice should not insulate the union from liability for its breach of its 19 duty to represent its members fairly. Weitzel v. Oil Chemical & Atomic Workers International 20 Union, Local 1-5, 667 F.2d 785 (9th Cir.1982).

21
23
24
25 Plaintiffs alleged Defendant Union denied them fair representation in both negotiations
26 and enforcement of the CBA, never providing a substantial or legitimate reason for doing so.
27 Defendant Union acted arbitrarily and in bad faith by failing to enforce express terms of LOA
28

1 05-03M by not holding the stand-alone vote, bargaining away their profit-sharing monies without 2 consent, and by maintain incomprehensible contract interpretations regarding LOA 05-03M and 3 the grievance procedures found in the CBA. Years of self-dealing and taking asserted actions 4 solely for their own financial self-interest are clear examples of arbitrary, discriminatory, and 5 bad faith acts.
6

7 Defendant IBT claims it used its judgment, insulating it from liability for those decisions
8 and because an attorney made those decisions. If a union claims it used judgment, such a decision
9 can only be arbitrary where such decision is without a rational basis or explanation. Beck v.
10 United Food and Commercial Workers Union, 506 F.3d 874, 879 (9th Cir. 2007). Judgment was 11 not needed; this was a ministerial task of holding the vote. There was no rational basis for not 12 doing so nor have they ever offered a rational basis for not having done so after repeated and 13 systemic demands to do so. Liability for a labor union's deceptive conduct in breach of the 14 fiduciary duty of fair representation arises only if the breach directly causes damage to an 15 individual or group to whom the duty is owed not just that union improperly viewed the grievance 16 as meritless but rather the union withdrew the grievances without according a party with their 17 statutory right individually to process those grievances. Stevens, 504 F.Supp. at 334; Robesky, 18 v. Qantas Empire Airways Ltd., 573 F.2d 1082, 1091 (9th Cir. 1978) (a union acts arbitrarily
19 when fails to provide adequate notice of or justification for a decision to withdraw an employee's 20 grievance). The power of a collective agent to represent employees before the Railroad 21 Adjustment Board does not extend to the settlement of grievances to the exclusion of the 22 aggrieved employees having any effective voice in settlement and/or individual hearing before
23 the board. Railway Labor Act §2, subds. 1-4, 6, 8, 45 U.S.C. §152, subds. 1-4, 6, 8, §184;
24 Santiago v. United Air Lines, Inc., 77 F.Supp. 3d 694 (N.D. Ill 2014).
25
26
27
28

1 Plaintiffs have plausibly alleged a claim for the breach of the duty of fair representation,
2 satisfying the Rule 8 standard, and acts have been alleged which, if proved, would also allow 3 Plaintiffs to establish Defendant IBT had no authority to enter into any terms regarding the 4 pension election option via the stand-alone vote of UAL Mechanics nor was Defendant IBT, as 5 Defendant United was aware, able to acquiesce to the dilution of the UAL Mechanics profit-
6 sharing pool prior to ratification and inclusion of the CAL Mechanics in a joint CBA. Defendant
7 IBT and its officers and agents did allow this to happen though and did not raise a single objection 8 all in contravention to the sole purpose a union even exists in labor relations – to challenge the 9 actions of the employer solely for the benefit of the potentially aggrieved employee.
10

12 Plaintiffs also plausibly allege Defendant IBT’s bad acts are the cause of their injuries –
13 years of lost pension rights and substantially less money from the dilution of the profit-sharing
14 pool are a direct result of Defendant Union’s failures. A union does not breach its duty of fair
15 representation unless it “intentionally caus[es] harm to an employee,” Graf v. Elgin, Joliet &
16 Eastern Railway Co., 697 F.2d 771, 777-81 (7th Cir.1983). Plaintiffs have sufficiently plead facts
17 at this stage to meet their burden.
18

19 2. Plaintiffs Plausibly Allege their Breach of the Duty of Fair Representation
20 Claim is Not Time-Barred and is Ripe.

21 a. LOA 05-03M expressly waives the statute of limitations.

22 LOA 05-03M contains an explicit waiver of the statute of limitations, providing, “any 23 party at any time to require performance of any provision of this Letter of Agreement shall not 24 affect the right of that party at a later time to enforce the same or a different provision.” Defs.
25 Decl. Manicone, Ex. A; FAC ¶ 40. More, the grievance procedures provide failure to follow the 26 timelines is a waiver of that step. Pl. Decl. Bybee, Ex. G. And, Defendant Union has not offered 27 a single fact or explanation as to why this occurred in the manner it did.
28

1 b. Tolling

2 If a party is induced or tricked by opposing party misconduct into missing a filing
3 deadline, then tolling operates to right the injustice. “Tolling should be allowed “if [it] otherwise
4 vindicates an important federal policy.” DelCostello v. Int’l. Bhd. Of Teamsters, 462 U.S. 151,
5 155 (1983). There is nothing in the CBA, or any other relevant policy or contract, to have given 6 Plaintiffs any idea Gleason’s memo had the significance Defendant Union asks this court to 7 attach to it. Tolling Plaintiffs claim until they received final word from Defendant United, their 8 employer, is appropriate under these circumstances and that date is May 1, 2018. Pl. Decl.
9 Scholz, Bybee. Plaintiffs tried to avoid unnecessary litigation by relentlessly invoking the 10 administrative process. And, Plaintiffs commenced the suit within a reasonable time after 11 Defendant United similarly rejected their request for a no-fund case on May 1, 2018; the statute
12 of limitations should be tolled until May 1, 2018.
13

15 c. Equitable estoppel doctrine is appropriate in this case.

16 To invoke equitable estoppel, plaintiffs must allege facts indicative of “improper purpose 17 by the defendant, or of the defendant’s actual or constructive knowledge that its conduct was 18 deceptive.” Stallcop v. Kaiser Found. Hosps., 820 F.2d 1044, 1050 (9th Cir.1987). “Conduct or 19 representations” by the defendant that “tend to lull the plaintiff into a false sense of security can 20 estop the defendant from raising the statute of limitations on the general equitable principle that 21 no man may take advantage of his own wrong.” Huseman v. Icicle Seafoods, Inc., 471 F.3d
22 1116, 1121 (9th Cir.2006). A plaintiff must show the defendant engaged in “affirmative
23 misconduct involving “a deliberate lie” or “a pattern of false promises.” Socop-Gonzalez v. INS,
24 272 F.3d 1176, 1184 (9th Cir.2001). This is precisely the set of facts Plaintiffs have pled. Here, 25 during the entirety of negotiations through to ratification, concealment of the true state of the 26
27
28

1 negotiations and grievances was misrepresented and misstated by Defendant Union; they should 2 not be allowed to benefit from such conduct to escape liability.

3 d. Plaintiff Dill's claim is ripe because 2016 JCBA has been ratified.

4
5 Plaintiff Dill filed her claim on November 17, 2016. In determining ripeness, the “fitness
6 of the issues for judicial decision,” and the “hardship to the parties of withholding court
7 consideration” are the main factors to weigh a decision. Addington v. US Airlines Ass’n, 791
8 F.3d 967, 974 (9th Cir. 2015) (quoting Addington I, 606 F.3d 1174, 1179 (9th Cir. 2010). With 9 a duty of fair representation claim, “a cause of action does not accrue at the time plaintiff becomes 10 aware of a wrong if, at that time, the plaintiff’s damages are not certain to occur or too speculative 11 to be proven.” Acri v. Intl Ass’n of Machinists, 781 F. 2d 1393, 1396 (9th Cir. 1986). The joint 12 CBA has been ratified and any possible contingencies regarding LOA 05-03 enforcement and 13 resultant injuries now exists. Plaintiff Dill has waited years; a resolution should not be deferred
14 any longer. And, it is unclear whether Plaintiffs will have any remedy available if the court
15 declines to adjudicate this dispute now because Defendant Union has stated the Gleason memo 16 is the only and final word on the subject.

17
18
19 B. PLAINTIFFS’ MEMBERSHIP PROPERTY INTERESTS WERE HARMED
20 WHEN DEFENDANT UNIONS EXCEEDED THEIR AUTHORITY AND 21 ACTED FOR BENEFIT OF DEFENDANT UNITED AND THEMSELVES.

22 Plaintiffs have sufficiently pled facts for a claim under § 501; the interests protected under 23 the LMRDA are not just “money” as Defendant Union asserts; a union member’s membership
24 in that union is a protected property right. 29 U.S.C. § 501. The fiduciary principle extends to 25 all the activities of union officials and other union agents or representatives. The Supreme Court 26 stated Congress was concerned unions need to be made legally accountable for agreements into 27 which they entered themselves, an objective that by itself would further stability among labor
28

1 organizations. United Ass'n of Journeymen & Apprentices of the Plumbing & Pipefitting
2 Industry v. Local 344, 452 U.S. 615, 624 (1980); Stelling v. Intl Bhd. of Elec. Workers Local
3 Union No. 1547, 587 F.2d 1379, 1386 (9th Cir. 1978) (Ninth Circuit adopted “the ‘broad view’” 4 of the statute holding “union officials have fiduciary duties even when no monetary interest of 5 the union is involved.”).

7 All union Defendants are proper parties to this action under the above standard and legal 8 landscape. One or all are directly responsible for mishandling and subverting the promulgated 9 grievance procedures and allowed the improper substitution of Nick Manicone and Ed Gleason.
10 All were present at all of the crucial points in the negotiations, vote ratification, and prevention
11 of exercise of contract rights by the Plaintiffs and others similarly situated. And, Defendant
12 Local and its officers operate as the direct agents of Defendant IBT and are therefore, liable.
13 These union officers and officials signed off on diluting the profit-sharing pool of UAL
14 Mechanics, as well as agreeing to amend plan documents in order to create some sort of pretext
15 as to why Defendant United did not have to honor LOA 05-03M. And, Defendant Local officers
16 had ample opportunity to convey the critical information to membership regarding the two plans
17 – CARP or WCTPT – and let the membership vote. LMRDA § 501 is clear – it authorizes an 18 individual union member to bring suit if a union refuses or fails to sue. Intl. Ass'n. of Mach. &
19 Aerospace Workers v. Intl. Longshoremen's & Warehousemen's Union, Local 13, 781 F.2d 685,
20 688 (9th Cir.1986); United Ass'n of Journeymen & Apprentices of the Plumbing & Pipefitting
21 Indus. v. Local 344, 452 U.S. 615 (1980). Plaintiffs further allege any jurisdictional prerequisites
22 not completed by Plaintiffs are harmless error and Plaintiffs should be granted leave to amend 23 instead of granting Defendants motion for dismissal. Plaintiffs honest belief, in light of the 24 Gleason memo and Plaintiffs many complaints operated as requests to review Defendant officer's 25
26
27
28

1 and agent's behavior. Should the court find Plaintiffs present complaint insufficient to meet the 2 leave requirement, Plaintiffs ask they be now granted leave in order to so amend their complaint.

3 C. PLAINTIFFS' ERISA CLAIMS SHOULD NOT BE DISMISSED BECAUSE THE 4 DEFENDANT UNIONS WERE KNOWING PARTICIPANTS IN THE BREACH

5 Plaintiffs have sufficiently pled a claim for liability by Defendant Union under a theory
6 of knowingly participating in a fiduciary's breach of duty. By Defendant IBT's own admission,
7 by adopting the Gleason memo findings as their own, Plaintiffs, and others similarly situated,
8 Defendant IBT and its officers and agents were horse trading with the UAL Mechanics vested
9 option to elect CARP or some other comparable plan for over six years. Defendant IBT also 10 stood by while Defendant United not only diluted profit-sharing monies held in trust under a 11 plan, but while Defendant United made certain amendments to the plan potentially causing the 12 plan losses and possibly cause it to be terminated and allowing Defendant United to delay certain
13 plan losses and possibly cause it to be terminated and allowing Defendant United to delay certain 14 qualified employees from enrolling in the plan to avoid a penalty payment to the PBGC, as also 15 detailed in SEC filings of Defendant United. These are not repackaged duty of fair representation 16 claims; these are stand-alone additional violations of statute, trust and good faith.

17
18 1. Plaintiffs Seek Plan-Wide Relief Not Individual Claims for Benefits.

19 The difference between denial of individual claims and a plan wide mishandling of claims
20 are two distinct injuries. Spindex Physical Therapy v. United Healthcare, 770 F.3d 1282 (9th 21 Cir. 2014) and Graphic Comm. Union Dist. Council No. 2, AFL-CIO v. GCIU- Employee
22 Retirement Benefit Plan, 917 F.2d 1184 (9th Cir. 1990). Plan-wide relief must be something
23 directly for the plan. Isola v. Hutchinson, 780 F.Supp 1299 (N.D. Cal. 1991). An ERISA breach 24 of fiduciary claim must be based on facts plausibly alleging a claim beyond a singular claim
25 mishandling; it must allege a plan-wide injury has occurred. Wise v. Verizon Commc'ns, Inc., 26 600 F.3d 1180, 1189 (9th Cir. 2010). A beneficiary who brings a complaint for fiduciary breach 27
28

1 may also be allowed to amend the complaint to clarify which portions of the action are brought
2 on behalf of the plan. Bartz v. Carter, 709 F.Supp 827 (N.D. Ill 1989).

3 2. Defendant Unions Knowingly Participated in Breaches of Fiduciary Duty.

4 A § 502(a)(3) claim may be brought against any defendant, including non-fiduciaries.
5 Harris Trust & Sav. Bank v. Salomon Smith Barney, Inc., 530 U.S. 238, 251 (2000). The non-
6 fiduciary must have had, “actual or constructive knowledge of the circumstances that rendered
7 the transaction unlawful.” Id. at 251. Courts allow plaintiffs to sue non-fiduciaries for “knowing
8 participation” in breaches of fiduciary duties established by ERISA § 404(a). 29 U.S.C. §
9 1052(a)(1)(A); Daniels v. Bursey, 313 F. Supp. 2d 790, 806-07 (N.D. Ill. 2004). In addition to 10 the knowledge requirement, claims against non-fiduciaries require plaintiffs to establish the non-11 fiduciary somehow participated in the ERISA violations. Harris Trust, at 241–43. “Participation” 12 means “affirmative assistance, or a failure to act when required to do so, enabling a breach [of 13 fiduciary duty] to proceed.” Rutledge v. Seyfarth, Shaw, Fairweather & Geraldson, 201 F.3d 14 1212, 1220 (9th Cir. 2000). Plaintiffs plausibly alleged facts to give rise to this claim and the 15 merits of those allegations is a factual question to be decided at trial.

16 3. RLA Cannot Be Properly Applied to Plaintiffs’ ERISA Claims.

17 ERISA and the RLA are both federal statutes and therefore, the preclusion analysis as to 18 which statute Congress meant to take precedence must be done; if two statutes are incompatible, 19 decide which statute Congress meant to take precedence whilst scrutinizing each to see if they 20 are incompatible or can instead be harmonized. Here, ERISA’s primary goal is to “protect . . .
21 the interests of participants and . . . beneficiaries” of employee benefit plans and assure 22 participants receive promised benefits from their employers. 29 U.S.C. § 1001. And,
23 notwithstanding the policies encouraging arbitration under the RLA, different considerations
24
25
26
27
28

1 apply where the employee claim is based on rights arising out of statute designed to provide
2 minimum substantive guarantees to workers who are pension plan participants and/or recipients.
3 Barrentine v. Arkansas-Best Freight Sys., 450 U.S. 728, 737 (1981). It seems inconceivable
4 Congress intended an employee participant who suffered injury or harm through 5 mismanagement, discriminatory application and/or denial of the clear plan terms would be denied
6 recovery under ERISA simply because she might also be able to process a labor organization
7 grievance under the RLA to some conclusion.
8

9 D. PLAINTIFFS SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO AMEND.

10 If the Court is inclined to grant any portion of Defendant's motion, Plaintiffs should be 11 granted leave to amend. Defendant has not met its burden of showing an amendment would be 12 futile or would result in undue prejudice. Leave to amend a party's pleading shall be denied only 13 upon showing of bad faith, undue delay, futility, or undue prejudice to the opposing party.
14 Leadsinger, Inc. v. BMG Music Publ'g, 512 F.3d 522, 532 (9th Cir. 2008) (citing Foman v. Davis, 15 371 U.S. 178, 182 (1962)).
16
17

18 V. CONCLUSION

19 Defendant United's Motion to Dismiss should be denied in its entirety. Pursuant to this 20 Court's standing order, counsel presenting this motion has less than six-years bar certification 21 and therefore, oral argument is respectfully requested.
